What kind of sustainable education for our common future?

Some reflexions

Joost Monks
NORRAG
UN Library Talks, June 15th, 2016
NORRAG is a multi-stakeholder policy network and knowledge broker which seeks to critically inform, challenge and influence international education and training policies and cooperation on a set of themes:

- Interactions between national and international policies
- Breaking silos and “Voices of the South”
- Knowledge production (NN, Blog, Working Papers..)
- Brokering between knowledge and policy
- Networking
- Capacity building
SDGs and Agenda 2030

- Agenda 2030: 17 SDGs and 169 targets!
- SDG 4 on inclusive and equitable quality education: Stretching from early childhood and technical and vocational training to Life Long Learning and including “sustainable lifestyles” (see hand out)
- SDG 4 moves far beyond the “Millennium Development Goal of universal primary education” and has the potential to serve as central sector running across the SDGs
- Is the goal too broad, will the goal on primary and secondary education become the priority at the expense of other, more holistic concerns and objectives?
- And how will it be implemented and monitored?
Some issues and debates

– Education is more than schools and schooling
– Education for life and education for a living (two sides of the medal)
– Soft skills (non cognitive, “21st century skills”,..)
– Governance of education and training
  • Horizontal: transversal dimension of E + T running across the SDGs
  • Vertical: What (emerging) actors and with what agenda’s?