

1. Introduction. Ishbel McWha, Douglas C. Maynard & Mary O'Neill Berry, Cornell University (USA; Scotland), State University of New York at New Paltz (USA), and Sirota (USA; UK; The Netherlands; Singapore).

Part I – Practical Applications of Using Humanitarian Work Psychology to Address the Millennium Development Goals

2. Psychology Responds to Intergenerational Poverty: A Case in Hong Kong. Charles C. Chan, Man Kin Lai, Eddie Chi Wai Ng, & Wendy Suet Yee Lau, Hong Kong Polytechnic University (Hong Kong).
3. On Negative Forces of Change: Humanitarian Work Psychology Supporting Basic Education Improvement in Ghana. Inusah Abdul-Nasiru & Steven Toaddy, University of Ghana (Ghana), and North Carolina State University (USA).
4. Reaching MDGs 4 and 5: The Application of Organizational Psychology to Maternal and Child Health Programme Sustainability in Sierra Leone. Eilish McAuliffe & Frederique Vallieres, Trinity College Dublin (Ireland).
5. Leadership Development via Humanitarian Work: IBM's Efforts in Nigeria. Mathian Osicki, IBM Corporation (USA).
6. An Ecological Momentary Approach to Communicable Disease Control in South-east Asia. Mahima Saxena, Illinois Institute of Technology (USA).

Part II – Process Considerations in Applying Humanitarian Work Psychology to the Millennium Development Goals

7. Work Analysis, Technology, and the Millennium Development Goals. Scott McCallum, Lori Foster Thompson, & Alexander E. Gloss, Aidmatrix (USA), and North Carolina State University (USA).
8. Testing the Psychological Processes That Underlie Progress Toward the Millennium Development Goals. Rustin D. Meyer, Ruth Kanfer, & Carla Burrus, Georgia Institute of Technology (USA).
9. Catch-22 in Humanitarian and Development Work: Emotional Exhaustion, Withdrawal, Health, and Work Motives of These Workers. Su Chuen Foo, Women for Women International (USA).
10. Cross-cultural Partnerships in Support of the Millennium Development Goals. Sarah Glavey & Ogenna Uduma, Harvard Kennedy School of Government (USA), and Trinity College Dublin (Ireland).
11. The 'Social Impact' of Consulting for Positive Social Change. Maura J. Mills & Benjamin S. Wood, Hofstra University (USA).
12. The Transformative Force of Collective Action: The Case for the United Nations Global Compact. Sean Cruse, United Nations Global Compact (USA).

Part III – Humanitarian Work Psychology Beyond the Millennium Development Goals

13. Humanitarian Work Psychology in Perspective: Reflective Essays.
  - Stuart Carr, Mac MacLachlan, and Karen Hand, Massey University (New Zealand) and Trinity College Dublin (Ireland).
  - Harry C. Hui and Benjamin Law (Hong Kong).
  - Lichia Yiu & Raymond Saner, CSEND (Switzerland)

- Telma Viale, International Labour Organization (USA).
  - Joel Lefkowitz, Baruch College (USA).
14. Humanitarian Work Psychology and the MDGs: Where To From Here? Ishbel McWha, Douglas C. Maynard, & Mary O'Neill Berry, Cornell University (USA; Scotland), State University of New York at New Paltz (USA), and Sirota (USA; UK; The Netherlands; Singapore).

